

MAUDMAN'S GENIUS MARKS MURDER AND SUICIDE

Mirror Machine Guided the Bullet That Shot Woman and Ended His Own Life.

CINCINNATI, May 27.—With no apparent motive save that which his aged fifty years, an inventor, shot Miss Maudman, aged twenty-eight, who lives in the same house, and then, taking deliberate aim, shot and instantly killed himself.

Nobody knew the act of attempted murder. No one heard a word of altercation pass between Bippes and Miss Maudman.

It was the ingenuity of the machine with which Bippes had sought death for himself that arrested the eye and created comment, that a man who would take his own life so deliberately would have no motive in the seeking of that of another.

At right angles to the frame of one of the windows was nailed a board. A hole was bored in the outer end of it. A revolver, with the muzzle in the aperture, projected from the piece of timber. At the side of the board from which the muzzle peeped was a mirror.

In this he took his fatal aim.

Bippes must have died instantly. The look of hate, terror and anger that must have been upon his face when he was arrested by death, and with teeth clenched and hands drawn to fists, he lay on the floor in the pool of his own blood until the coroner came.

Bippes was notorious in the neighborhood for his quarrelsome disposition. He had been in the past the subject of a ship built after the anatomical structure of a duck.
